WHAT YOU MISSED

BY MISSING QUARTERLY MEETING

If you were not able to make it to Quarterly Meeting, we missed you. You and your children missed great programs, fellowship, worship, business and food. Friends began the day by encircling the venerable ancient oak tree in the front of the property. Our speakers Cheryl and Fred Veith, explained some history of the tree and how Fallsington Friends took steps to enrich its life. Fred and shared a meditation and helped ground everyone in the spirit. We then gathered to hear about Cheryl and Fred's lives and their work caring for and transplanting BIG mature trees. The Veiths have lived as simply as possible impacting the earth and our universe as little as possible. We are blessed to have them as role models in our community.

The children gathered with the whole community around a towering old oak tree and then children went upstairs to the old kitchen of the meetinghouse to do some cooking together. They took time to appreciate all that nature and people did to help the apples to grow that they chopped and put into an apple cake recipe. The cake was baked and enjoyed by the meeting at lunch time. An art project gave children the final chance to appreciate trees as each made a beautiful one of their own.

During our afternoon business session we learned about the years activities at Middletown, Solebury, Southampton, Wrightstown and Yardley Meetings as well as the continuing success of Bucks Food For Friends and the new Chandler Hall - Kendal relationship.

Plan to join us for Quarterly Meeting at Lehigh Valley on November 17th.

LIFE OF THE MEETING

What does it mean when Quakers talk about "The life of their Meeting"?

"The life of a particular meeting depends not only on regular worship, but on the ties with other meetings, and on the social or other work which it can do in the town or village community of which it is a part. All members therefore are expected to share in the committee work of the local meeting, in the monthly and quarterly meetings, in the general activities of the Society, and in any contacts which Friends make with the life and work of the people round them. "

From, A Brief Dictionary of Quakerism"
